Thirteen Hartnell students and two advisors will attend the Northern California Junior College Stu-dent Government association convention tomorrow at Oakland junior college.

The purpose of the convention is to discuss the problems of the junior colleges. There will be five ior colleges. There will be five workshops at the convention: fi-nance student government, publicy, athletics and social activities.
Jack Sandy, who is the leader of the delegation, and Paul Cahill will present two resolutions in the student government workshop. They are to establish the office of state historian and to have a representative form the California department of education present at the state junior college conference.

Resolution Planned

Sandy Epperson will present a resolution to the social activity workshop to establish uniform policies for postgame activities within the athletic leagues of the schools attending the conference.

Pete Burlison was appointed by the president of the northern regent as chairman of the finance workshop. Barbara Pedevilla was appointed secretary of the work-

The students attending the conference are Deanna Locatelli, Erica Rossi, Paul Cahill, Al Baguio, Fred Olin, Jim Huffman, Wayne, Han-dley, Glenda Cheny, Barbara Pede-villa, Pete Burlison, Ruben Rueda and Jack Sandy. The advisors are Miss June Handley and Dr. Lionel

Students' Blood Desired Anytime

It is not necessary for Hartnell students to wait until the special Hartnell blood drive to make a contribution to the Red Cross blood bank, according to Miss June Handley, dean of women.
Students should contribute whenever possible to the regular blood bank on the first Monday of each month in order that blood will be available to Hartnell students and their families.

Hartnell has a special account from blood contributed by its sturer, Joe dents. One student recently ob-Helen tained some of this blood for his (Continued on Page 3)

Jobs at National Park Are Offered

Students who are interested in summer employment at Yellowstone National park should send in their applications before the end of March, according to Mrs. Anne Harper, placement bureau director.

The applications are available in the placement bureau office.

The jobs are with private companies in the park and consist of sales clerks, housekeepers, office workers, soda fountain clerks, cooks and cook's helpers, waitresses and dish washers.

There is one private organization which specializes in photography, selling cameras and developing pic-tures. This job is available to students who have had some training in photography.

Paintings Shown On College Walls

Watercolor and oil paintings by Clark Carpenter are on display in the Hartnell college science wing and in room 31. Students may examine the work until March 28.

A student of Mr. Leon Amyx and Mr. Joseph Bragdon, art instructors at Hartnell, the Salinas sophomore has emphasized line, shape and speaker has not been selected, Mr. color as well as figures and still life. Amyx said.

Hartnell Students Famed Controlto

Eva Gustavson, a Norwegian contralto who sung in operas and concerts throughout Europe, will sing for the student body at 11 a.m., March 28, according to Mr. Lorell McCann, Hartnell's concert orchestra director.

Miss Gustavson will sing pieces by Edward Grieg and operatic solos from "Carmen."

In January, 1950, she sang with the Monterey county symphony or-chestra conducted by Mr. McCann. She also performed in the Friends of Music concert.

Future Teachers Ask Larger Membership

The officers of the Education club are attempting to contact all education majors in order to invite them personally to join the club.

Persons who were club mem bers last semester and who have paid their dues are considered to be members this semester, according to Mr. Leon Amyx.

The club is planning to have an evening meeting the second week after Easter vacation. It is tentatively planned to have a professor from a four-year college speak on "The Teaching of Reading." The Program to Have Mr. Biggs Speaker In Business Meet

Re-examination during a period of business recession was discussed by Reginald H. Biggs, vice president of the Emporium Capwell company of San Francisco, during the first session of the Hartnell business management institute last

Biggs, who serves San Francisco State college and the University of California in advisory capacities, led the session on marketing and merchandising.

The speaker offered several suggestions on business economies in-cluding budget control, avoidance of wasteful operations, proper train-ing of personnel and the setting of good examples of high standards in economical operation by business executives.

The institute is a new step for Hartnell, according to Dr. J. F. Ching. Many business problems will be discussed by outstanding specialists. Thirty-eight persons have enrolled in the course.

Book Thieves Present

Seems as if there have been a few (or maybe one) book thieves around Hartnell lately. Admitted, it seems like a good idea not having to scrounge around for money and uselessly spend it on (ugh) schoolbooks. Admitted, the money could sure come in handy for the car payments or a new dress. But why deprive someone else of his books? That someone else just might have had a rougher time than you would ever have getting money for those books. getting money for those books.

It is hoped that there is only one person in on the thieving. After all, Hartnell could certainly never publicly boast a thief in its midst. Especially a thief who thieves schoolbooks. A person of this type lowers the standards of everyone at Hartnell in several ways. He deprives students of learning, of valuables (who can honestly say a book is not valuables) and makes it an all around touch me uable?) and makes it an all-around tough go.

Society frowns upon stealing and, frankly, so does Hartnell. Let us all keep an eye out for someone with someone else's books and stop this thief before he owns a small library of our books backed by our money.

March 7, 1958

Is it the purpose of a newspaper to print facts, not insinuations and half truths?

In the Feb. 28 issue of the Panther Sentinel, you wrote an editorial insinuating that the students in the student lounge live like pigs. You further stated that the commission had been informed that the men's lounge in our student lounge looks like . . . In this statement are you insinuating that our student lounge looks like a pig-sty? The commission had not been informed that the appearance of our student lounge is a discrete.

In your March 7 issue you stated that the situation mentioned above had been aired in the commission. The issue of our student lounge looking like . . . has not been aired in the commission. The matter of purchasing new games for the student lounge and methods of distribution of these games was discussed in a commission meeting. These games have been placed in the lounge for the enjoyment and pleasure of our students.

The commission has been proud of the fact that the student lounge has been kept in good condition by our part-time employee.

We hope that the newspaper which serves as a line of communication with the community and other colleges will refrain from printing insinuations and half truths.

The commission welcomes constructive criticism on matters concerning student government. We feel that our newspaper, as an organ of public (not private) opinion has a place in the college government and in a democratic society.

Sincerely yours,

ALEX ZERMENO ASB President

Life's O.K.

Today, Spring starts! With the sunshiny weather brightening our spirits and the galore of cotton dresses on parade, students seem to be enjoying every bit of it. But the college lawn doesn't look neat and pretty to sit on when those trash and paper bags are thrown on it by the lazy students, does it? So, sun-lovers, take note!

A member of the faculty in a London medical college was appointed an honorary physician to the king. He proudly wrote a nothe king. He proudly wrote a no-tice on the blackboard in his class-room: "Professor Jennings informs his students that he has been ap-pointed honorary physician to His Majesty, King George."

When the professor returned to his classroom in the afternoon, he found written below the notice this

More Members Added to Group

Two additional members have been appointed to the student commission committee on parking vio-lations, according to Alex Zermeno, student body president.

Erica Rossi and Paul Cahill were appointed March 10. With chairman Jack Dunstan, the other mem bers include Claude Ponting and Wayne Handley.

Campus parking problems always will exist, according to Zermeno. "It is for the students' good that the commissioners issue parking tickets to any student violating parking regulations," he added

Filice Hits Homer As Reglimen Win

A three-run homer by Frank Filice gave the Hartnell baseballers a 15-3 win over the San Jose State Freshmen on the San Jose diamond March 11.

Coach Jess Regli's team scored in every inning except the first and seventh. Aubrey Woods, Panther shortstop, collected a single and a double, while Filice had a single along with his homerun. Nelson Foreman and Bob Beretta split the pitching assignment.

French Chemise Invades Campus

A new fad in women's clothes is sweeping the college campus. It's a feed sack with frills imported from France. The common name for this bit of shapeless shoppery is the "chemise."

A recent pole of male students on the SJS campus turned up the following comments on this strange looking garment:

Bill Douglas, junior: "I think it's great if you've got what it takes to

Larry Lack, junior: "Kinda baggy."

Adair Chew, senior: "I think it looks like a scarecrow in a bean patch."

Nev Griffin, junior: "They look pretty good if a girl has the figure

Dr. Dwight Bentel, head of the department of journalism and advertising: "I think it's the worst abomination since the bustle."

Lash Turville, sophomore: "I don't like the appearance of them."

Dick Hall, junior: "Oh, you mean those shapeless baggy things?" Marsh Ward, freshman: "I'm always for something new."

Fred Kemper, senior: "I think it's a sexless sack."

Pete Ueberroth, junior: "A real thin girl can take a whole step in it without moving the dress."

Dick Schneider, junior: "Beats me."

The final tally was three for, eight against. The editor of this column, having observed the hang of one of these feed sacks on the shapely figure of a certain blonde on the Hartnell campus, votes an emphatic yes for the chemise. It's the greatest invention since falsies.

List of Recent Books on Study May Be Obtained In Library Here

MISS CATHERINE CARPENTER

It is not too late to do something about those grades that aren't as good as they should be. The library has a number of recent books on how to study. These books not only tell you how to study, but also how to read better and faster, how to take lecture notes and how to take examinations.

George Weigand's "College Orientation" and Clifford Morgan's "How to Study" have chapters on the studying of foreign languages and mathematics. A section in Frederick McElwee's "A Guide to College Study" tells how to write themes and research papers. Tips on writing book reports and short stories are given in a booklet called "How to Be a Better Student."

Caricatures May Not Be Shown

The caricatures of the faculty may not appear in La Reata this year because of the lack of space, according to Jack Sandy, yearbook

The caricatures were a new idea this year and have encountered difficulties such as insuffimany cient time for the artist and the lack of adequate faculty portraits with which to work. The yearbook staff will do its best to make the caricatures possible, Sandy said.

Both the freshman and the sophomore pictures have been taken. Mr. George Abbott, yearbook advisor, says he was disappointed in the turnout of the students because only an estimated 250 freshmen out of 600 and an estimated 180 sophomores out of 300 had their pictures taken. In view of the overwhelming vote in favor of publishing an annual, a better participation was expected.
